

Outstanding Young Member 2017 Award for Mr. Prakash Kamble

Mr. Prakash Kamble, Manager Reservoir (BPRL) has been awarded the “Outstanding Young Member 2017 in South Asia and Pacific region” by the Society of Petroleum Engineers (SPE). This award is given by SPE in recognition of ongoing contribution towards the various initiatives of SPE like promotion of Petroleum Engineering, enhancing skills, technical excellence, leadership efforts, and volunteering work in the field of Petroleum Engineering. The SPE is a prestigious professional organization with international presence whose mission is to collect, disseminate, and exchange technical knowledge concerning oil and gas resources and related technologies for the public benefit and to provide opportunities for professionals to enhance their technical and professional competence.

Mr. Kamble holds a Bachelor of Engineering degree in Petroleum Engineering from MIT Pune and also an MBA in Finance. He has been involved with SPE for over 14 years and has authored technical papers on “High Pressure High Temperature (HPHT) Exploration and Production”. Also Mr. Kamble was engaged in the implementation of various SPE scholarship programmes, has peer reviewed articles for subsurface magazines and worked towards spreading awareness about SPE and its activities in the petroleum industry fraternity.

The award process in SPE is a robust one with stringent guidelines. Prospective awardees need to be independently nominated by existing SPE Members and a committee of senior judges decides the awardee.

It is a matter of pride that Mr. Kamble was nominated by no less than 12 members, and chosen as the winner from amongst 20 candidates by a jury of 8 senior judges.

We wish Mr. Prakash Kamble all the very best for his future career.
